

Harry A. Strausser III

Harry A. Strausser III is President of The Remit Corporation and Interact Training and Development where he oversees the operation of a full-service collection agency and coordinates the training programs of its educational subsidiary. A second-generation collector, Harry is active in both the Pennsylvania Collectors Association and ACA International, the trade association of credit and collection professionals, in which he is a Certified Instructor. He has instructed hundreds of seminars for the ACA. He is one of less than 100 professionals holding a Master Credit Executive designation. He has most recently concluded a five-year term on the ACA International Executive Committee where he served as ACA President in 2004-2005.

Harry holds an MA in Communication from Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania and a BS in Business Administration from the same institution. He is often a fulltime adjunct Professor for the Department of Communication Studies at Bloomsburg University where he teaches Interpersonal Communication, Public Speaking, and Corporate Communication. He travels extensively across the United States and international locations conducting educational and motivational programs for associations, private enterprises, conferences and public seminar events. Some of his clients include Marriott Vacation Ownership, Starwood Resorts and the Credit Union National Association. He serves as official emcee for the Collection Advisor Magazine Technology Conference each fall and writes a monthly training column for that publication.

Harry enjoys travel, music, working outdoors at his home, and spending time with his two golden retrievers Hannah and Maggie who were featured on the cover of Collection Advisor Magazine!
