

Dr. Juan Manuel Licari

Dr. Juan Manuel Licari at present works as a Senior Economist for Moody's Analytics in the United States. His main field of expertise is in the analysis of credit risk and its connection to the rest of the economy. Juan Manuel heads various consulting projects for leading banks and financial companies in Europe, the United States and Latin America. The results of his research work have been published in prestigious scientific journals and related print.

With regards to his background, Juan Manuel received a PhD in Economics from the University of Pennsylvania and numerous awards and scholarships for his academic achievements. Juan Manuel completed his postgraduate work in only three years; a record for the Economics Department. His thesis focused on the study of Financial Assets and Monetary Politics.

Juan Manuel also has a Masters degree from the University of Pennsylvania and is a graduate in Economics from the National University of Cordoba. Among other distinctions, Juan Manuel received the award for the highest grade point average of his class.

Senior Economist
MOODY'S ANALYTICS